Thank you note

Lucid Kid here

The Team and I would like to thank you for supporting us in this long and demanding upcoming journey of Awareness around habits that are now seen as a norm.

We would like to thank you for being an early supporter of a project who wants to bring the most out of our mission through NFTs on Cardano.

We hope this thank you note, filled with behind the scenes art and inspirations, pops a little smile on your face.

The Sniffing Kid artwork

We were thinking of how we can showcase extreme addiction to likes or any sort of digital currency that signifies people care or are paying attention to us.

We chose potentially one of the most well-known and pop culture heavy drugs in the world and we started thinking of how its consumption is shown via movies, and one of the most famous scenes is Uma Thurman in Pulp Fiction snorting her Cocaine Line.

Sniffing through a piece of rolled paper, as it's shown on the picture.

Addiction or Drugs usually also pushes us to do anything for more of it, up to sniffing off the floor as long as it hits the right way.

That's when we started thinking of a position that could make the person look desperate, at the edge of their life just for a bit more.

We thought of Banksy's famous street art of the policeman sniffing the parking line.

And this is the main inspiration behind our work, we worked it out to showcase the Digital Addiction scene, and what better way to encapsulate attention than the famous "❤️", the best way the social tech giants allow us to show love towards anything online.

And it gave this final result
